HONGKONG DISPENSARY. October 27th, 1888.

The publication of this issue commenced

Before dealing at length with the im- comparison with similar works at home, and portant points raised during the interesting an extract is given from a report from Sir The Superintendent of the P. & O. Comdiscussion on the Estimates which took Robert Rawlinson. This extract and Mr | pany informs us that the Company's steamer place on Saturday last, there is one thing Price's figures are suspiciously like a report | Kashqar left Bombay for here on Saturday, which demands some remark. If we remember rightly the instruments for the Volunteer Band, of which Captain

Deane spoke, was a pretty large item, and, as the members were mostly young Volunteers, the Band died with the Corps somewhere in the '60's. The reception met with when the Chairman thus metaphorically significant. The Acting Chief Justice desired to know the cost, Mr Layton thought that the sum named was not sufficient for 'good band,' upon which the Colonial Secretary (who is well known to have a great horror of unmusical sounds) warmly the Colony was sufficiently advanced to have a band.' What this may mean it is not for us to say. But the Attorney General, not apparently agreeing with his friend Mr Price that the Chinese portion of the Colony had sufficiently advanced to have a band, suggested that its musical strains would to a great extent be thrown away upon our Celestial friends. Mr Ryrie was very strongly against a bandof the common wind instruments of the Saxons, although he seemed to have a sneaking wish for a band of Pipers, which would evidently meet the requirements of the Scotch and Chinese sections of the community. He would, at all events, have nothing to do with a brass band. He further observed that the Military bands had always been ready to supply as much music for us as we required; and, as Mr Wodehouse reminded the Committee, we would soon have two regiments and two regimental bands. So that, altogether, it is difficult to gather from the report of the discussion, how Dr Stewart arrived at the conclusion, that 'it seemed to be the general opinion that it would desirable to have a band, if a good one could be obtained.' Seriously, however, it is almost impossible to obtain a good band, the members of which would have medified Police duty to perform, and be attached to | The the Police Force, while they were supposed at the same time to efficiently encompass the manifold duties of a 'Town Band.' In the circumstances of Hongkong, we agree most heartily with Mr Ryrie, that it is not necessary to have a Town Band; and we cannot but think that to be wasting much | The D. D. R. steamer Bellow left Singaconsideration over a Town Band, while the Fire Brigade was for a long time kept at starvation point, does not denote adminis- The tration of a very high order. If one considers the enormous expenditure which is pending, it will not be very difficult to arrive at the conclusion that the Colony has not sufficiently advanced to waste money on a Town Band. About the popular disposition in Bantam and some other districts of Java, much is written but very little news appears. A visitor to Bantam, who seems to have given special care to the examination of local feeling, writes to the newspapers, that, although many of the tales lately told about these parts (for instance that the European ladies continually carry quick poison with them in case of emergency) are either wholly or partly without foundation, yet the Government has to be continually on the watch, and that many of the gooroos, who were exciting the mind of the natives, have been imprisoned.
